The flavor text "use only what remains" suggests that information need to be eliminated. This is accomplished via two mechanisms. First, there are rules for how to deal with zombies from each class year (e.g. music attracts zombies). This suggests that any rule-related word (e.g. "REGGAE" for music) should be eliminated from the word pool. The second mechanism becomes apparent from the fact that there are 25 word blocks and 10 grids. Examining the word blocks reveals that there are 15 with main-round answers. These word blocks should be removed in their entirety. Once all of the rules have been applied and the word list pared down, each word block corresponds to a grid. Fitting the words into the grid crossword-style forms letters in the grids, revealing the final answer A NEURAL NET.
